

- Try to make it sound as less romantic and as fun as you can
- If there is some common interest you both share choose that as the activity.
- Try to change venues a few times or do few different things if possible.
- Try a daytime date if possible. It is less pressure and if things go well it will run way into night giving you enough time to build comfort and seduce her.
- Start touching as early as possible and keep escalating.
- Laugh, laugh, and laugh.
- Be creative and unique.
- Have her pick you up if you can.
- Plan in advance to end up near your house to improve your odds of bringing her home.
- Plant an idea early on as to why you would like her to come to your place someday and later make that someday be this day.
- Very often I bring women home during the day as it is less pressure. Who says you have to have sex at midnight!
- Always be polite to bouncers and waiters. It does not make you look strong, acting tough with them.
- Always flirt with other women in front of your date. It makes them jealous. Remember the distinction though, flirt not seduce. Let her see that other women like you and she will hold you tight.